Glossary

This page provides a glossary of terms.

Summary

The Restart Wiki tries to assume no previous knowledge, only a willingness to learn, and so we try to introduce and explain tech we go along. But you might dip in and out or read the end of an article before the beginning, or you might consult other source unfamiliar terms.

So this page gathers together as many technical terms as possible that you might come across in your fixing-related research, and linked in to main wiki articles where relevant.

You will find your favourite search engine or Wikipedia  also to be valuable resources for looking up unfamiliar terms - those you more detail.

Glossary of Terms

0-9 A B C D E F G H I J K L M N O P Q R S T U V W X Y Z

Term	Meaning
0 - 9
0-Day	See Zero Day.
2FA	See Two factor Authentication.
A
AC	Alternating Current. An electrical supply which reverses direction ma second. See AC and DC in the Wiki.

We just turned 5! Wish us a happy birthday.

- We have a collection of non-specific pages covering background topics:
 - A comprehensive Glossary contains definitions or brief explanations of terms you may come across in repair guides or in doing your own research.
 - Scared to Repair? Long time Restarter Dave Lukes explains why you needn't be.
 - How to search and fixing resources.
 - Some of our favourite fixes are listed in our Case Studies. Some were educational, others just made a good story, but all of them were very satisfying.
 - A few thoughts on finding a reliable professional repairer.

Now go and rescue that gadget that's been sitting in a corner broken for months, and see what you can do!
